Volume 18 Issue 7 Published Monthly

July/Aug 2013

It has been a busy month for the team. Jason Crimp and John Pethick were in the Cayman Islands for the annual CARALL conference. We sponsored a visit to the local turtle sanctuary which everyone found very interesting. See the pictures on the following pages.

In the meantime, here in London we have published Arbitration in the Lebanon, Russian Public Law, and The Law and Practice of Charging Orders on Land. These are all fully described on page 54 and following, at the back of this issue of the Book News.

We were also involved with our annual Journal of Comparative Law Workshop which was on Interdisciplinary Study and Comparative Law this year and was held on the 25th of July, with generous sponsorship from the University of Notre Dame in London. There is more about the journal on page 45.

Does gender make a difference to the way the judiciary works and should work? Or is gender-blindness a built-in prerequisite of judicial objectivity? If gender does make a difference, how might this be defined? These are the key questions posed in this collection of essays, by some 30 authors, from 15 countries representing all five continents, whose answers draw on various theoretical approaches, including gender, feminist, and sociological theories. The book's pressing topicality is underlined by the fact that well into the modern era male opposition to women's admission to, and progress within, the judicial profession has been largely based on the argument that their very gender programmes women to show empathy, partiality and gendered prejudice - in short essential qualities running directly counter to the need for judicial objectivity.

Cyber Crime, Security and Digital Intelligence

Mark Johnson

Gower Publishing, Hardback, ISBN 9781409454496, £65.00, due August 2013

Today's digital economy is uniquely dependent on the Internet, yet few users or decision makers have more than a rudimentary understanding of the myriad of online risks that threaten us. Cyber crime is one of the main threats to the integrity and availability of data and systems. From insiders to complex external attacks and industrial worms, modern business faces unprecedented challenges; and while cyber security and digital intelligence are the necessary responses to this challenge, they are understood by only a tiny minority. In his second book on high-tech risks, Mark Johnson goes far beyond enumerating past cases and summarising legal or regulatory requirements. He describes in plain, non-technical language how cyber crime has evolved and the nature of the very latest threats. He confronts issues that are not addressed by codified rules and practice guidelines, supporting this with over 30 valuable illustrations and tables. Written for the non-technical layman and the high tech risk manager alike, the book also explores countermeasures, penetration testing, best practice principles, cyber conflict and future challenges. A discussion of Web 2.0 risks delves into the very real questions facing policy makers, along with the pros and cons of open source data. In a chapter on Digital Intelligence readers are provided with an exhaustive guide to practical, effective and ethical online investigations.

Law in Northern Ireland 2nd edition

Brice Dickson

Hart Publishing, Paperback,
ISBN 9781849464598,
£32.00, due August 2013

This is the latest edition of a book which is the standard introductory text for newcomers to the legal system of Northern Ireland. After explaining how law-making has evolved in Northern Ireland, particularly since the partition of Ireland in 1921, the book devotes separate chapters to the current constitutional position of Northern Ireland, to the making of legislation and case law for that jurisdiction, and to the influence of EU and European Convention law. It examines the principles of public law applying in Northern Ireland and outlines the role of some of the public authorities there. It then moves to chapters on criminal law and criminal procedure, followed by chapters on private law and civil procedure. It ends by examining the legal professions, legal education, the legal aid regimes and legal costs. There are also appendices with sample sources of law. Throughout the book, the focus is on conveying in comprehensible terms the essential features of this small, but historically very controversial, legal jurisdiction.

Practical Commentary on the ICDR International Arbitration Rules

Stephanie Cohen

Juris Publishing, Hardback,
ISBN 9781933833934,
£95.00, due August 2013

This new book examines arbitration governed by the International Arbitration Rules of one of the world's leading arbitral institutions, the American Arbitration Association ("AAA"), and its international division, the International Center for Dispute Resolution ("ICDR"). This book seeks to inform expectations about the conduct of ICDR arbitrations by offering a practical guide to interpretation and application of the Rules. To reveal the meaning and significance of each of the ICDR's Rules beyond its express terms, article-by-article commentary primarily focuses on two issues. First, the book considers the extent to which the Rules reflect prevailing practices in international commercial arbitration. In this respect, comparisons to other "leading" arbitration rules reveal what is unique about the ICDR approach to international commercial arbitration. Second, the book examines the legal effect of the Rules. In doing so, it analyzes the interplay between national arbitration laws and the Rules by concentrating predominantly on U.S. law. This approach has been adopted due to the fact that the majority of ICDR arbitrations involve at least one U.S. party and/or take place in the U.S.

The Law of State Immunity 3rd edition

Hazel Fox QC and Philippa Web

Oxford University Press,
Hardback, 9780199647064,

£175.00, due August 2013
This fully restructured new edition provides a detailed analysis of the issues surrounding the doctrine of state immunity in a clear and accessible manner. It provides a nuanced assessment of the development of the doctrine of state immunity, including a general comprehensive overview of the plea of immunity of a foreign state, its characteristics, and its operation as a bar to proceedings in national courts of another state. It includes a coherent history and justification of the plea of state immunity, demonstrating its development from the absolute to the restrictive phase, arguing that state immunity can now be seen to be developing into a third phase which uses immunity allocate adjudicative and enforcement jurisdictions between the foreign and the territorial states. The United Nations Convention on Jurisdictional Immunities of states and their Property is thoroughly assessed. Through a detailed examination of the sources of law and of English and US case law, and a comparative analysis of other types of immunity, the authors explore both the law as it stands, and what it could and should be in years to come.

LAW AND PRACTICE OF CHARGING ORDERS ON LAND

Falcon Chambers

Price: £85.00
ISBN: 9780854901241
Extent: 308 pp
Binding: Hardback

Written by specialists with practical experience, Law and Practice of Charging Orders on Land provides a clear and thorough analysis of the law applicable to charging orders on land. Such orders are frequently sought, but can give rise to difficult issues both in terms of the exercise of discretion by the courts, and in relation to priorities. The book provides a guide to practitioners as to the pitfalls that can arise in seeking or challenging a charging order. There is comprehensive citation of authority and reference to statutory materials and the relevant provisions of the Civil Procedure Rules.

The book explains the history of the law on charging orders which culminated in the Charging Orders Act 1979. It explains how to apply for a charging order and how the court is likely to exercise its discretion on such an application at both the interim and final stages. It considers the often difficult issues of priority that can arise in relation to charging orders. It explains how a charging order, once made, may be challenged and examines the process whereby a charging order may be enforced through an order for sale. It also looks at other cognate forms of order which create a charge over land and contains examples of relevant documents.

Law and Practice of Charging Orders on Land is an up-to-date treatment of this area of law, covering practical issues and giving examples. It addresses the very difficult legal issues that can arise and provides guidance as to how they might be dealt with.

All the contributors are barristers practising at Falcon Chambers in London, the leading set that specialises exclusively in land law and landlord and tenant work.

LEGAL RESEARCH
A Practitioner's Handbook

Second edition

Peter Clinch with Jon Beaumont

Price: £45.00
Edition: 2nd edition
ISBN: 9780854901234
Binding: Hardback

This comprehensive reference work is specifically aimed at busy practitioners (solicitors, barristers and professional support lawyers). Legal Research: A Practitioner's Handbook provides practical advice on every aspect of effective legal research: problem analysis, selecting and finding the best sources, and presenting results effectively.

This second edition has been thoroughly updated throughout, taking into account the increasing popularity of the PLC database aimed at UK law practitioners, the overhaul of a number of government and other official sites (national and international), and significant changes to directions by UK courts relating to the conduct and presentation of legal research. New material on the use of social media in legal research has also been added.

Part A covers problem identification and analysis, followed by advice on how to select the best sources and formats (paper or electronic) for research. Part B deals with the information most frequently sought by practitioners, listing sources with analytical comments and, for a selection of the most complex, 'how to use' instructions developed to a standard template. Jurisdictional coverage includes England, Wales, Scotland, Northern Ireland and the European Union, with the addition of information on key sources in European human rights and international law. Part C details sources on how to make the presentation of the results of legal research more effective. These three parts are supplemented by Part D, which describes in non-technical language how a practitioner might get the best value for money when buying information, whether print or online, from commercial law publishers.

Peter Clinch has 35 years' experience in law information work, including training law students, practising solicitors and law librarians in legal research skills. Jon Beaumont is Head of Knowledge Management at Shakespeares. He is Chair of the British & Irish Association of Law Librarians (BIALL) Publications Committee.

ARBITRATION IN LEBANON
The Civil Law Practice

M Marc Sukkar

Price: £65
ISBN: 9780854900664
Extent: 408 pp
Binding: Hardback

Arbitration in Lebanon is the first publication that covers, in a single volume, the complete area of arbitration law as it stands in Lebanon and comparative analysis with French, English and other arbitration systems.

The author focuses on the advantages and pitfalls of arbitration in this once vibrant French colony, suggesting possible improvements for a way forward through a more efficient, reliable and cost effective arbitration system.

'The subject of this excellent book is indeed a fitting and necessary contribution to the jurisprudence of the East and the West. It should come as no surprise that, with trade there comes the need to ensure that relations between merchant and customer and merchant and merchant are governed in an orderly fashion, so that disputes may be resolved with due expedition, ensuring justice for all.'

The author, has indeed made a seminal contribution to the jurisprudence of alternative dispute resolution by seamlessly bringing together the doctrines of arbitration, the procedures and the manner in which disputes may be resolved, resorting to the very rich source materials that exist.

The book is, and will become, a very handy, if not indispensable reference tool to all who seek to trade within the Middle East, and especially in the Levant. All too readily, and ever more so with common sense coming to the fore, alternative dispute resolution has now become the norm, if not de rigueur, for commercial disputation and its efficacious resolution.

This book presents and supplements the lacuna that has been present for so long and so agonisingly absent from the shelves of any erstwhile learner. It will, and I am confident must be a source of reference for all those who seek to embark upon trade within the Middle East, and the author is to be congratulated for filling the vacuum that has been so void for so long.' From the Foreword by Stephen J Stanton

The author is a partner in the firm of Lalive in Qatar.
