

A long, straight path of numerous purple flowers, likely crocuses, stretches across a vibrant green lawn. The flowers are arranged in a dense, repeating pattern that recedes into the distance. In the background, there are lush green trees and a brick building with white window frames. A dark fence runs along the right side of the path. The overall scene is bright and colorful, suggesting a well-maintained garden or park.

MAJOR NEW TITLES THIS MONTH

Adeney, Elizabeth, Moral Rights of Authors and Performers: An International and Comparative Analysis, Oxford Univ Press, HB, £145.00, ISBN: 0199284741

This book gives detailed accounts of the operation of moral rights in France and Germany today, addressing both statutory interpretation and doctrinal issues. The provision of case studies gives an impression of the rich jurisprudence associated with the rights in these countries. The book also contains a detailed discussion of the versions of moral rights that have become entrenched in Canada, the UK, the US and Australia, with each country considered independently. It deals separately with the introduction of the rights into each country and their operation and interpretation by courts and commentators. Material on common law analogues to the rights is provided, which indicates alternative actions that practitioners might take. Problems of cross-jurisdictional legal proceedings (especially arising from technological transfer of information) are also addressed, with moral rights protection elsewhere in the world summarised in tabular form.

Antczak, Gina and Walton, Kevin, Tolley's Corporation Tax 2006-07 Main Annual Only, LexisNexis UK, PB, £94.95, ISBN: 0754529770

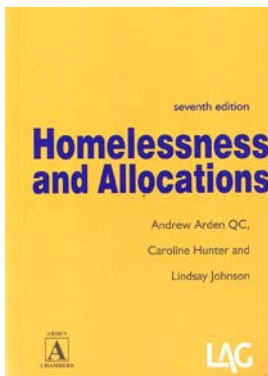

The only book to look at corporation tax law and practice in a subject-oriented way. In alphabetical order, from Accounting Periods to Venture Capital Trusts, it brings together all the legislation, case law and ancillary material you need to deal with all aspects of corporation tax compliance, planning and agreeing liabilities. A detailed subject index, internal chapter indexes for longer chapters, comprehensive tables of legislation and cases and full references to source materials ensure you will overlook nothing of importance. The law and practice for at least the last six years is covered, to help you with areas such as claims, late assessments and investigation work; and over 50 worked examples are included to clarify complex points.

Robert, Whillans's Tax Tables 2006-07- Finance Act Edition, LexisNexis UK, PB, £29.95, ISBN: 1405711159
This Finance Act 2006 edition of Whillans's Tax Tables includes provisions from the Finance Act 2006, the new Revenue exchange rates, updated retail price indices and any other information not available for inclusion in the June edition.

Arden, Andrew and Hunter, Caroline, Homelessness and Allocations 7ed, Legal Action Group, PB, £45.00, ISBN: 1903307384

Arthur, Raymond, Family Life and Youth Offending: Home is where the hurt is, Routledge, HB, £70.00, ISBN: 041540844X
The contention that young people commit offences due to inadequate parenting and parental difficulties has been an abiding feature of the debates on juvenile offending. Previously, this evidence has been used to design prevention programmes for young offenders who have been processed by the criminal justice system. However, this book examines how this evidence can be used to prevent offending in the first place. This book advocates preventing youth delinquency through the medium of parenting support, catering to the families of young people who are not yet seriously engaged in offending and anti-social behaviour, but who are at risk of developing in that direction.

Baker, Jonathan et al, Contact: The New Deal, Jordans, PB, £40.00, ISBN: 0853089736

An essential book for all professionals acting, advising and assisting on residence and contact issues, Contact: The New Deal brings together all the key recent statutory and non-statutory changes affecting and informing this important area of the law.

Bantekas, Ilias and Keramiidas, Giannis, International and European Financial Criminal Law, LexisNexis UK, PB, £185.00, ISBN: 1405715642

This book explains in detail the criminal elements and regulation of international and transnational financial transactions. Using a practical, transactional focus, the book aims to be a one-stop shop on legal issues relating to international financial crime. Containing authoritative content from an expert team, this book is simply the most comprehensive title on this subject available.

Barnard, Catherine, EC Employment Law 3ed, Oxford Univ Press, PB, £39.99, ISBN: 0199280037

This new edition of EC Employment Law provides a complete revision and update of the leading English language text in the field. The coverage in the new edition has been expanded with material on all the latest developments, including the new Equality Directives, the development of the European Employment Strategy, the Open Method of Coordination (OMC) as well as more traditional regulatory techniques. It also analyses the ever expanding body of employment case law.

Barnes, Peter, JCT 05 Standard Building Sub-Contract, Blackwell Publishing, HB, £59.50, ISBN: 1405140488

Whilst there are a number of books on the main forms of building contract, very few deal with subcontracting. This book examines the new JCT Standard Building Sub-contracts for use with the radically revised 2005 JCT Standard Building Contract. It examines the key contract conditions, considers the rights and obligations of the parties and how risk is allocated, and discusses the main practical problems that arise.

Press, PB, £25.99, ISBN: 0521689317

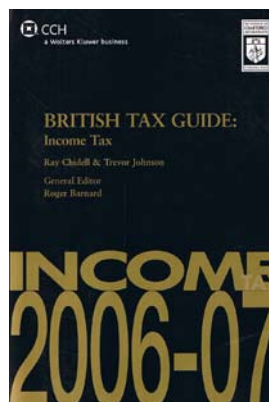

Since its first publication, this book has been recognised as the leading treatment of the law of personal injuries compensation and the social, political and economic issues surrounding it. The seventh edition of this classic work explores recent momentous changes in personal injury law and practice and puts them into broad perspective.

Chappell, David, JCT Minor Works Building Contracts 2005 4ed, Blackwell, HB, £45.00, ISBN: 1405152710

This is the most widely used of the JCT forms of contract, not only for simple, short contracts of moderate price, for which it is intended, but also for much larger projects for which it is often not suited at all. As a result, contractual difficulties can arise, and despite the form's simplicity an understanding of the legal background to the form is essential. This book explains the practical applications of the form from the point of view of the employer, architect and contractor. It provides a straightforward explanation of the legal aspects of the form supported by flow charts, tables and sample letters. The Fourth Edition has been revised to cover the 2005 edition of the form, which has given the contract a completely new look. The book now covers the new JCT Minor Works Building Contract with contractor's design (MWD).

Collier, Richard and Sheldon, Sally, Fathers' Rights Activism and Law in Reform in Comparative Perspective, Hart Publishing, PB, £14.95, ISBN: 1841136298

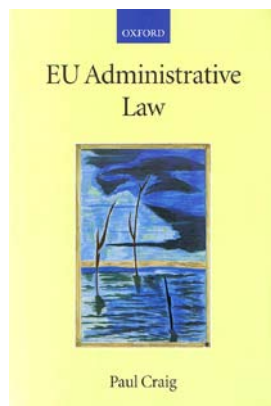

The legal status, responsibilities and rights of men who are fathers - married or unmarried, cohabiting or separated, biological or social in nature - is a topic with a long and well-documented history. Yet recent developments in a number of countries suggest a growing politicisation of the relationship between law and fatherhood. This book presents an attempt to understand these developments. Bringing together leading international commentators it provides a careful, critical and comparative analysis of the work of fathers' rights activists, the role law has played in their campaigning, their legal strategies, their success (or otherwise) in achieving legal reform, similarities and divergences with the women's movement, and the relationship between fathers' rights movements and the societies that frame them.

Cooper, Simon and Orme, Michael, Road Traffic Law, Oxford Univ Press, PB, £24.95, ISBN: 0199296839 This text is a practical guide to road traffic law. It covers all the principal aspects of road traffic law including driving offenses, driver identification, alcohol and drug related offenses, licensing and insurance, traffic signs and fixed penalties. Each chapter is written in non-technical language and combines explanations of the law with practical illustrations, examples and FAQ's on problems commonly faced by police officers engaged in road traffic law enforcement. The book will focus on those areas that are most frequently encountered by traffic officers in their everyday working lives. This is a must for all police officers who are engaged in front-line traffic duties.

Delacroix, Sylvie, Legal Norms and Normativity: An Essay in Genealogy, Hart Publishing, HB, £32.00, ISBN: 1841134554

Dyzenhaus, David, Constitution of Law: Legality in a Time if Emergency, Cambridge Univ Press, PB, £19.99, ISBN: 0521677955
Dyzenhaus deals with the urgent question of how governments should respond to emergencies and terrorism by exploring the idea that there is an unwritten constitution of law, exemplified in the common law constitution of Commonwealth countries. He looks mainly to cases decided in the United Kingdom, Australia and Canada to demonstrate that even in the absence of an entrenched bill of rights, the law provides a moral resource that can inform a rule-of-law project capable of responding to situations which place legal and political order under great stress. Those cases are discussed against a backdrop of recent writing and judicial decisions in the United States of America in order to show that the issues are not confined to the Commonwealth. The author argues that the rule-of-law project is one in which judges play an important role, but which also requires the participation of the legislature and the executive.

Ebtehaj, Fatemah; Lindley, Bridget and Richards, Martin, Kinship Matters, Hart Publishing, PB, £35.00, ISBN: 1841136972

This book is the fifth in a series by the Cambridge Socio-legal Group and is a product of a three day conference held in Cambridge in September 2005. It concerns the evolving notions and practices of kinship in contemporary Britain and the interrelationship of kinship, law and social policy. Assembling contributions from scholars in a range of disciplines, it examines social, legal, cultural and psychological questions related to kinship.

Elliott, Catherine, English Legal System Sourcebook, Pearson, PB, £21.99, ISBN: 1405821345

This book has handpicked the essential cases, statutes and other sources for Legal System students. It will save time by eliminating the need to spend hours in the law library or on electronic databases looking for the relevant material. It has been designed to be more concise and user-friendly than other cases and materials books, with the same clear style and layout that has made the Elliott and Quinn textbooks so popular.

Farrington, Dennis and Palfreyman, David, Law of Higher Education, Oxford Univ Press, HB, £75.00, ISBN: 0199297452

Universities and colleges in the UK have to deal with many legal issues. Some are specific to the sector, such as; constitution and organisation; rights of members; relationships with students and academic staff; research contracts; information services; and student unions. Others are of a more general character, such as; employment; estates; and risk management. The text is linked to the updating service on the OxCHEPS website so that users can keep up to date with developments. The book will be extremely useful for solicitors and barristers trying to keep up to date with this complex area of law, together with higher education administrators and employees.

Ferrarini, Guido and Wymeersch, Eddy, Investor Protection in Europe: Regulatory Competition and Harmonization, Oxford Univ Press, HB, £75.00, ISBN: 0199202915

This collection explores the topical issue of investor protection in Europe from both a capital market and a company law perspective, and offers a broad and coherent perspective on regulatory competition and harmonisation concerning companies and securities markets in the EU. Following the unitary approach to investor protection, increasingly justified and adopted in Europe after the Enron, and Parmalat scandals, the volume follows

The features include: covers the main types of legal assessment - Essays - Problem questions - Exam questions - Extended essays and dissertations; gives practical examples of good and bad legal writing technique, highlighting good legal skills in action, and helping you to spot and avoid poor technique and, a dedicated Companion Website includes practice exercises for each chapter and a 'You be the Marker' activity to help you hone your skills further.

Furmston, Michael P., Cheshire, Fifoot and Furmston's Law of Contract 15ed, Oxford Univ Press, PB, £31.99, ISBN: 0199287562

This fifteenth edition remains one of the leading textbooks on the subject more than fifty years after the publication of its first edition. Michael Furmston's exposition is comprehensive and clear, and describes all the major principles of the English law of contract. Now supported by an Online Resource Centre, this text represents an authoritative yet accessible source of information and analysis for students studying the law of contract and law of obligations. Each chapter contains numerous references to additional primary and secondary sources to take the student even further into the subject.

Furse, Mark, Competition Law of the EC and the UK 5ed, Oxford Univ Press, PB, £25.99, ISBN: 0199288445 Now in its fifth edition, this established text presents a clear and well-structured approach to competition law in the EC and UK. The author provides the student with up-to-date analysis of the key areas covered on undergraduate competition law courses, including the law relating to agreements (both legal and illegal) between companies, abuses of dominant positions, mergers, international developments, intellectual property law, and common law.

Gad, Mohamad Omar, Representational Fairness in WTO Rule-Making: Negotiating, Implementing, and Disputing the Trips Pharmaceutical-Related Provisions, British Institute of International and Comparative Law, PB, £95.00, ISBN: 1905221045. This book examines representational fairness in WTO rule-making. The context of examination is the pharmaceutical-related provisions of the TRIPS Agreement and the interests of developing countries and pharmaceutical multinational enterprises therein. The book analyses the negotiation and implementation periods of the specified TRIPS provisions and the legal disputes that arose, covering the period from the mid-1980s, until the adoption of the Doha Declaration on the TRIPS Agreement and Public Health in November 2001.

Ghoutzinis, Apostolos, Internet Banking and the Law in Europe: Regulation, Financial Intergration and Electronic Commerce, Cambridge Univ Press, HB, £60.00, ISBN: 0521860717. The European Union has long sought to create a single financial area across Europe where consumers in one country benefit from financial markets and activities in other countries. With the emergence of the Internet as a platform for the provision of online banking services, the creation of a pan-European market for banking services appeared a realistic proposition. In practice, however, this has not happened. This book asks why and argues that the creation of banking markets via the Internet relies on both available technologies and appropriate laws and regulations. The institutional and legal framework for on-line banking services in the single European market are examined, as is the level of legal harmonization achieved in the UK, France and Germany under the influence of the EU Directives pertaining to online banking activities.

ence for accessible, accurate information on liabilities, tax mitigation and compliance. This book is a practical work including many worked examples to clarify legislation where computations are involved, with commentary in the form of notes to the examples to help explain complex points. Also, further updated forms are added this year as well as additional Working Case Studies to make this edition even more practical. With so many changes relating to Inheritance Tax in 2006, a new edition of this up to date book is a must for practitioners.

Gordon, Keith, Tottel's Guide to the Tax Treatment of Specialist Occupations 2ed, Tottel Publishing, PB, £58.00, ISBN: 1845922719

This new edition focuses on the special tax treatment of a wide range of occupations in a clear and succinct format. It helps readers to service their existing client base, reminding them of any special rules that may be applicable and helps them to understand how to deal with new clients and be aware of the relevant issues.

Griffiths, Gwendoline, Neate: Bank Confidentiality 3ed, Tottel Publishing, HB, £195.00, ISBN: 1845922360

Published in conjunction with the International Bar Association, this new, fully revised fourth edition provides a clear picture of the laws relating to bank confidentiality. Each chapter sets out the basic rules of confidentiality - the nature, extent and source of those rules - and examines their civil and criminal nature, the remedies available for breach of those obligations and the extent to which conflicts of interest arise and how data protection legislation operates in relevant jurisdictions. Each contributor then analyses these issues in the light of statutory and non-statutory frameworks of civil and criminal law in their jurisdiction. New chapters include coverage of the Cayman Islands, Russia and EU Money Laundering Directives.

Harris, Brian; Carnes, Andrew and Byrne, Garrett, Disciplinary and Regulatory Proceedings 4ed, Jordans, HB, £90.00, ISBN: 1846110435

This is the leading work on this important and dynamic area of law. Written by leading practitioners in the field any existing cross-border jurisprudence. Each chapter adopts the same format for ease of reference, addressing key concepts such as the centre of main interests, court-to-court communication, enforcement of security interests and the protection of debtors and creditors.

Hoffman, David and Rowe, John, Human Rights in the UK: An Introduction to the Human Rights Act 1998, Pearson, PB, £26.99, ISBN: 1405823933

This highly acclaimed textbook provides law students with a thorough introduction to the Human Rights Act 1998 and the mass of case law which has followed it. Providing thought-provoking discussion on topical issues, it paves the way for students wishing to pursue more in-depth analytical study in this contemporary, and sometimes controversial, area of the law.

Howard, Mark, Butterworths Banking Law Guide, LexisNexis UK, PB, £95.00, ISBN: 0406049351

An invaluable first reference point for all those requiring an accessible text on banking and finance. Concentrating on domestic banking in the main, it also covers international banking techniques such as the use of letters of credit, and includes discussion of the impact of EC directives. This book covers all the core issues succinctly and in a practical and user-friendly manner. It will be valued by those new to banking practice as well as senior colleagues, and by in-house practitioners alike.

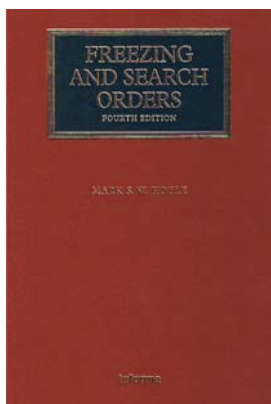

Howells, Geraint; Micklitz, Hans and Wilhelmsson, Thomas, European Fair Trading: The Unfair Commercial Practices Directive, Ashgate, HB, £60.00, ISBN: 0754645894

The Unfair Commercial Practices Directive is the most important directive in the field of trade practices to have emerged from the EC, but it builds upon European activity which has sought to regulate trade practices on both a sectoral and horizontal level. It is an umbrella provision, which uses general clauses to protect consumers. How effective this approach is and how it relates to the existing acquis are fundamental issues for debate. This work provides a critical appraisal of the Unfair Commercial Practices Directive linking discussion of it to general debates about how fair trading should be regulated. It explains how the Directive fits into the existing acquis. It also examines national traditions where these are necessary to explain the European approach, as in the case of general clauses.

Hoyle, Mark, Freezing and Search and Seizure Orders, Informa Publishing, HB, £130.00, ISBN: 1843115263

This fourth edition of the previously named The Mareva Injunction and Related Orders, has been comprehensively revised and updated to cover the many developments in this area since the third edition was published in 1997. This book is an essential practitioner's guide for every practicing lawyer on how to protect your client's position in litigation or arbitration, and ensures that success in court is not hampered by destruction of evidence, or does not lead to an expensive hollow victory because no funds or assets are available.

Hutton, Matthew, Tottel's Trusts and Estates 2006-07, Tottel Publishing, PB, £19.95, ISBN: 1845923235 in Renaissance England establishes the diversity of their dialogue, encompassing critique and complexity, comment and analogy, but argues that the way in which drama addresses legal problems and dilemmas is nevertheless distinctive. As the resemblance between law and theatre concerns their formal structures rather than their methods and aims, an interdisciplinary approach must be alive to distinctions as well as affinities.

Murphy, Peter, Blackstone's Criminal Practice 2007, Oxford Univ Press, HB, £165.00, ISBN: 0199205914

Smailes, David; Pinfold, Louise and Walton, Kevin, Tolley's Income Tax 2006-07

Main Annual Only, LexisNexis UK, PB, £93.95, ISBN: 0754529797

This book, now in its 91st edition but fully tailored to the 21st century, is the definitive work on the subject, providing comprehensive, but straightforward and concise coverage of the relevant statute law, case law and Revenue practice for not only the current year but the last six years as well. Its alphabetical, topic-organised presentation with extensive cross-referencing, supported by full details of source materials and a wide-ranging index, will lead you quickly and directly to the information you require. Numerous fully-updated worked examples provide further clarification of the more complex points.

Smith, Stephen, Boozers, Ballcocks and Bail, Neville Douglas Publishing, PB, £10.99, ISBN: 1901853675
Meet Spider, Jack and Albert - not forgetting Suki Deville, Pagey and Wilf - just some of the characters featured in Yorkshire's best-known criminal law practice. Set in Rotherham in the early 1980s, "Boozers, Ballcocks & Bail" is the first in legendary criminal lawyer Steve Smith's comic series, charting his life as a criminal lawyer at Wilford Smith. Always ready to call a spade a spade, Steve takes the reader on a rollercoaster of laughter and tears as he depicts human nature at its best - and worst.

This book focuses on the practice of day-to-day decision-making in Brussels and the interactions that take place among the Member States in the Council and among the Commission, the Council and the European Parliament. A unique data set of actual Commission proposals are examined against which the authors develop, apply and test a range of explanatory models of decision-making, exemplifying how to study decision-making in other political systems using advanced theoretical tools and appropriate research design.

Tiley, John and Collison, David, Tiley & Collison UK Tax Guide 2006/07 24ed, LexisNexis UK, PB, £104.95, ISBN: 1405712384
This book adopts a practical approach to UK tax law providing essential guidance for the practitioner and is also ideally suited for students studying for the CIOT examination. It examines the workings of income tax, corporation tax, capital gains tax, inheritance tax, VAT, stamp duty and NIC. The thought-provoking commentary makes the complex subject of revenue law interesting and easy to understand. It is fully cross-referenced to the major LexisNexis Butterworths looseleaf works. Published in October, the 2006-07 edition is fully up-to-date incorporating statute and case law up to the date of Royal Assent to the Finance Act 2006. With expert commentaries from Peter Arrowsmith (NIC), Patrick Cannon (Stamp Duties) and Charles Barcroft (VAT).

Hon. Chancellor Carl Singh during his whistlestop visit to Wildy's with John Pethick (in contrast to our July/August picture which was taken in his office in Guyana)

AMONG THE WILD(Y) BUNCH

The first thing one notices when stepping into Wildy's Lincoln's Inn Archway shop is the extraordinary number of legal texts which have somehow been shoehorned into what is, by North American standards, a rather modest sized space. To this perception is soon added the witnessing of bustling activity in the shop: law students, barristers, judges and others making their important purchases and the staff busily tending to the needs of a variety of patrons and patron-types: those shopping in person, others on the telephone, and a veritable deluge of orders made by email and on the Wildy website.

In my normal life I am Law Librarian and an Associate Professor at the Faculty of Law of the University of Manitoba in Winnipeg, Canada. While on research leave I spent September and October of 2006 at Wildy's, engaged in a project helping to improve their database of antiquarian law books (more about those delights later). It was, to say the least, a real eye-opener for me. Like many North Americans I had a rather quaint notion of Wildy's and its business. My memories from a handful of visits there in the past were of an old and charming bookshop in which one could easily imagine Dickens browsing the shelves (which apparently is the case). Because bookshops in my part of the world function primarily as such and little else, I believed the same held true for Wildy's. I could hardly be more mistaken.

Wildy's is a unique phenomenon. It is, of course, a bookshop, but that is only a portion of the service they provide. Wildy's is very much a full-service purveyor of print legal information and is not confined to the mere sale of books to in-person clients. It provides subscription services to a host of large libraries and law firms, keeping their updates coming in a timely manner and managing their looseleaf subscriptions efficiently and effectively. It is an international distributor of legal materials. One cannot help but be impressed by the cartloads of boxed materials leaving the premises every evening for legal information consumers in all parts of the globe. The orders for these materials are received by web order, email, telephone, and post. Furthermore, it is even a producer of legal information through its publishing wing, Wildy, Simmonds & Hill.

In my library our acquisitions are made directly from the publishers from whom we purchase and there are, to my knowledge, no bookshops in Canada who could replicate what Wildy's does. Therefore I was surprised by the volume of their business and the large number of clients who prefer to make their purchases through them and not deal directly with the publishers. After observing their operation for a few weeks, I began to understand this state of affairs. The simple fact is that Wildy's can provide complete service to their clientele, something which the publishers cannot. They are not tied to one publisher's catalogue and therefore can give objective and balanced advice with regard to a patron's information needs and they do everything in their power to get the material ordered to their patrons immediately and at minimal expense.

Given that space is, as mentioned earlier, quite limited, Wildy's cannot devote a great amount of space to storage of inventory. Therefore they very much have to anticipate their clients' demands and remain nimble enough to respond quickly to them. This requires a great amount of expertise and knowledge in the field. I have constantly been impressed by the high level of these demonstrated by the Wildy's staff all of whom have worked in the field for a goodly number of years and one of whom is even a LL.B. graduate and particularly expert in advising students about to embark on legal studies or already involved in their pursuit.

An unfortunate misperception of Wildy's – likely a result of their having been around since the 1830s – is that they are a “second-hand bookshop”. The fact is that they do sell second hand materials at reduced prices and they do have a wonderful collection of antiquarian law books, but these comprise only a percentage of their overall business. In fact, ninety-five percent of their annual turnover is comprised of new books, subscriptions, and library services.

The antiquarian collection, with which I worked for two months, is a most impressive collection of historically significant and important works. As a Canadian law librarian, I was very much aware of many of the titles and series held at Wildy's and I was very much like the proverbial “kid in a candy store” to be surrounded by these delightful works. Actually touching and gently leafing through a mint condition first edition of Blackstone's Commentaries one cannot help but feel connected to the grand sweep of legal scholarship which has informed the law in the entire legal “Anglosphere”.

I enjoyed my time at Wildy's immensely. I would be remiss if I didn't mention the delightful company of my colleagues there. They were to a person hard-working and dedicated yet possessed of a good sense of fun and humour and it was a delight to spend time in their midst.

Two months at Wildy & Sons was a revelation. It is not, by any means, just a legal bookshop. It is a much more fulsome operation capable of satisfying the legal information needs of a vast array of clients anywhere in the world. Should they remain as responsive to the needs of their patrons and as adaptable to new technologies as they have so far demonstrated, I am confident that they will prosper for many, many years to come.

Guyana Law Association UK 4th Anniversary Ball

Attended by John & Vicki Pethick on behalf of Wildy's

Readers of the Book News will be aware of our past invitations to the GLA UK Ball and I am pleased to say my wife and I were once again invited back to accept their thanks on behalf of all of our customers who have been kind enough to donate their books to the regeneration of the many court libraries all over Guyana. Despite many tonnes already sent over which have made an enormous difference, there are still more books needed as one court in particular has no books at all and relies on copies from the lawyers themselves.

I would like to thank the Chair Colin Bobb Semple for the complimentary tickets and for helping us feel welcome, and more importantly not having to give a speech! Those of you who know me, would no doubt appreciate this fact as well!

Colin is Chair of the GLA Guyana's Law Association which has been actively involved in fund raising events throughout the year. A special thanks is due to Mr Deo Singh who, for the last 18 months, has been responsible for collecting the books from all over the country. He has done this in addition to being a JP, and was one of the main helpers when we were clearing out our warehouse last year. He made several trips in his car, having to go the long way home due to the weight of books against the speed bumps.

Special thanks must also be given to Lal Nawbatt who had served in the public service here in the UK for 25 years before taking early retirement. This did not last too long as he was soon approached by the Environmental Agency for his services. He is still an active participant in organising functions and you can always guarantee to see him darting all over the dance floor, assisting with one thing or another. The other committee members Dale Simon, Brian Horne and Ansari Ramjohn were busy as usual organizing the raffle, the auctions and the seating accommodation.

GLA UK even managed to get a bottle of Scotch, signed by Tony & Cherie Blair, which was auctioned with the proceeds going towards the shipping expenses for the next donation of books going to Guyana

Sadly His Excellency Laleshwar Singh, the High Commissioner for Guyana, was unable to attend on this occasion, however the First Secretary Michael Brotherson managed to take his place and to add his thanks as well as that of the High Commissioner's for the help of Wildy's and their customers and for their support over the years.

Should anyone have unwanted law books that they would wish to donate to a good cause, please contact Mr Deo Singh via the Guyana High Commission on telephone number 0207 229 7684.

Companies Act 2006: The New Law

by Alistair Alcock, John Birds and Steve Gale

Jordan Publishing, Paperback, ISBN 1846610362, c.£75.00, due January 2007

The Companies Act 2006 promises to be the most radical reform of company law for decades. This very substantial piece of legislation with over 1200 sections and 16 schedules represents a seismic change to the company law landscape. Following the highly regarded Jordan's New Law Series format, this book, written by leading company law experts and contributors to Gore-Browne on Companies, offers an authoritative account of the background and effect of the Act. Focusing on the areas of change, the title combines analysis of the new provisions with essential cross-references to existing law remaining in force, providing a comprehensive account of the forthcoming regime and its implications for company law practice. The full text of the Act will be reproduced.

Blackstone's Guide to the Companies Act 2006

by Alan Steinfeld QC and team at 24 Old Buildings

Oxford University Press, Paperback, ISBN 0199217106, c.£55.00, due February 2007

The Companies Act is a major piece of legislation - comprising 1264 sections and 16 schedules. It represents an attempt to reform company law for the 21st century in accordance with the Government's stated objectives of encouraging small companies, promoting shareholder involvement and fostering a long term investment culture. It puts whole areas of company law that are the product of the common law on a statutory basis for the first time, and implements EU Directives on Takeovers and Transparency Obligations. Despite these changes large parts of the current Companies Act 1985 remain in force, which means practitioners will need to navigate a complex landscape of old and new legislation. This Guide provides a clear analysis of the new legislation, explaining both its genesis and likely effect. The authors adopt a topic-based approach, focussing on the most important changes and developments for both private and public companies. Containing the full text of the Companies Act 2006, the author team from 24 Old Buildings, a leading company and commercial law set, provide expert analysis of the new legislation in an accessible and clear manner, making this an ideal quick reference text that is fully cross-referenced to the Companies Act 1985, to show both what has changed and what remains in force.

Clarity for Lawyers- Effective Legal Writing, 2nd Edition

by Mark Adler

Law Society Publishing, Paperback, ISBN 1 85328 985 X, c.£29.95, due December 2006

The traditional style of legal drafting has been widely discredited over the last 40 years. Drafting in clear, modern English is now increasingly required by law and by clients, but few lawyers have the necessary ability. Mark Adler debunks the myth that legalese is precise and explains, with many before-and-after examples, how lawyers can increase their efficiency, profits, and client approval while making their documents more reliable. The previous edition has been thoroughly revised, updated and expanded to include new sections on ambiguity, vagueness, miscuing, and editing, as well as advice about communication via emails and websites, persuasive writing, and the rules of interpretation. The new edition also contains a helpful range of precedents written in plain English, including a simple will, memorandum of association and divorce petition. Mark Adler is a solicitor in general practice but also teaches plain legal writing in the UK and overseas and acts as a plain drafting consultant to lawyers and others. For many years he was chairman of Clarity, the lawyers' movement for plain legal language, and he edited its journal from 1987 to 2000.

Houseman's Law of Life Assurance 13th Edition

By Robert SurrIDGE, Brian

Murphy, and Noleen John. Tottel Publishing, Hardback, ISBN 1845922425, c.£148.00, due November 2006

Houseman's Law of Life Assurance has been the leading text in its field for more than 70 years, offering expert advice on life assurance in one user-friendly, single-resource. Unique in its depth of coverage and currency, the new edition is right up-to-date with legislative changes, case law and all relevant industry developments since the last edition in 2001. The authors provide detailed coverage of the significant changes in FSMA and FSA Handbook, discuss the effects of Depolarisation, and provide an introduction of the Prudential source book. Further coverage is given on the Finance Act 2006 and the latest tax provisions, as well as a new chapter on Reassurance. This title is renowned for its practical insight into the workings of the industry, and provides detailed explanations of the various tax planning opportunities using life assurance. Written by respected industry insiders and tax specialists this new thirteenth edition provides all the relevant law, regulations and commentary at your fingertips - in one single source.

Probate Practitioner's Handbook, 5th Edition

General Editor: Lesley King
Law Society Publishing, Paperback, ISBN 1 85328 934 5, c.£49.95, due November 2006

The Probate Practitioner's Handbook has established itself as one of the key works in this field. The fifth edition of this comprehensive and reliable resource has been fully updated and revised to take account of changes in the area. Written by a select team of leading experts, this invaluable reference covers all aspects of probate - the regulatory framework, law and practice, marketing, practice management, client care, and information technology. It is ideal for practitioners seeking to offer a professional and profitable service to their clients. This latest edition features a new chapter on money laundering and proceeds of crime, coverage of the changes to taxation of trusts, and guidance on the impact of the Civil Partnership Act 2004. Clear and highly practical, the book includes checklists, sample letters, precedents, examples, case commentaries and extracts of articles from practitioners' journals. Professor Lesley King is a solicitor and Principal Lecturer at the College of Law. She is a member of the Law Society's Wills and Equity Committee and conducts seminars on their behalf.

Financial Services Authority Regulation and Risk-Based Compliance 2nd edition

Edited by Stuart Bazley and Andrew Haynes
Tottel Publishing, Paperback, ISBN: 1845922492, c.£65.00, due November 2006

This new edition provides a practical guide to the due diligence mechanisms that ensure accurate and effective FSA regulations compliance. Focusing on the latest due diligence mechanisms that can be developed and implemented, the second edition of this invaluable guide will help all organisations operating in this heavily regulated industry to accurately comply with their legal responsibilities. Comprehensively updated and re-written in response to several key developments in financial services law and regulation, the new edition provides coverage of the EU's Financial Services Action Plan, and the evolution of the FSA Tribunal decisions. The authors go on to provide detailed coverage on operating a risk-based approach to regulation, and the role of senior management and their relationship with the FSA. Further discussion is given to the FSA supervision of regulated firms, and the role of the financial services and markets tribunals. Written by leading experts, the new edition clearly outlines the latest compliance concepts, and the skills needed to implement effective compliance systems. Dr Andrew Haynes BA (Hons) Law, PhD, Cert Ed, FRSA, FSALS has written widely in the field of financial services. He is currently Head of the Institute of Finance Law at the University of Wolverhampton. Stuart Bazley LL.B (hons), LL.M (Lond) is managing director of regulatory consulting at the Momenta Group. Stuart has worked in financial services for over 20 years.

Inheritance Act Claims- A Practical Guide

by Tracey Angus, Anna Clarke, Paul Hewitt and Penelope Reed
Law Society Publishing, Paperback, ISBN 1853285536, c.£59.95, due December 2006

This highly practical book provides a comprehensive guide to claims brought under the Inheritance Act (Provision for Family and Dependents) 1975. The book offers detailed coverage of the area, including: a thorough guide to the legislation; discussion of the problems faced by practitioners when dealing with cases; explanation of the procedure involved; practical advice on assessing quantum claims; and guidance on the tax implications of orders and compromises. The authors examine each class of applicant, including the new category for civil partners and, drawing on their own experience, they discuss the criteria that the court will apply. Tracey Angus, Anna Clarke and Penelope Reed are all barristers at 5 Stone Buildings. Paul Hewitt is a principal solicitor in the Contentious Trust and Probate team at Withers LLP

Personal Injury Limitation Law, 2nd edition

by Frank Burton and Rodney Nelson-Jones

Tottel Publishing, Paperback, ISBN 1845922972, c.£48.00, due November 2006

Now in its second edition, Personal Injury Limitation Law is a convenient and authoritative guide that will prove essential for all personal injury practitioners. Fully updated, it provides comprehensive and practical guidance to the law of limitation periods in personal injury actions. For ease and speed of use, this accessible book is divided into 3 user-friendly sections. Part 1 deals with the subject in depth and detail, and works as a highly practical reference guide covering all aspects of PI limitation law. Part 2 offers more than 400 major case summaries, both reported and unreported, and part 3 contains the relevant legislation and rules. The new edition offers a valuable combination of key guidance and information, vital case notes and summaries, plus all the relevant legislation and court rules in one user-friendly single-source reference book. The authors provide authoritative coverage on the latest Civil Procedure Rules; the Human Rights Act (1998); primary limitation periods; section 33 applications; fatal cases; and special Time Limits. No other book can provide busy personal injury practitioners with as much guidance on all aspects of PI limitation law, alongside the essential case notes, relevant legislation and court rules.

The Oxford Handbook of Comparative Law

Edited by Reinhard Zimmermann and Mathias Reimann
Oxford University Press, Hardback, ISBN 0199296065, c.£120.00, due November 2006

The Oxford Handbook of Comparative Law provides a wide-ranging and highly diverse survey as well as a critical assessment of comparative law at the beginning of the twenty-first century. It summarizes and evaluates a discipline that is time-honoured but not easily understood in all its dimensions. In the current era of globalization, this discipline is more relevant than ever, both on the academic and on the practical level. The Handbook is divided into three main sections. Section I surveys how comparative law has developed and where it stands today in various parts of the world. This includes not only traditional model jurisdictions, such as France, Germany, and the United States, but also other regions like Eastern Europe, East Asia, and Latin America. Section II then discusses the major approaches to comparative law - its methods, goals, and its relationship with other fields, such as legal history, economics, and linguistics. Finally, section III deals with the status of comparative studies in over a dozen subject matter areas, including the major categories of private, economic, public, and criminal law. The Handbook contains forty-eight chapters which are written by experts from around the world. The aim of each chapter is to provide an accessible, original, and critical account of the current state of comparative law in its respective area, which will help to shape the agenda in the years to come. Each chapter also includes a short bibliography referencing the definitive works in the field.

Carriage of Goods by Sea

by Stephen D. Girvin

Oxford University Press, Hardback, ISBN 0198764588, c.£135.00, due January 2007

Carriage of Goods by Sea contains a lucid analysis of the law on the subject written primarily from the perspective of English law but with reference to cases in other major commonwealth countries. Introductory chapters cover topics such as the business of carriage as well as the underlying principles (contract, agency, tort, and bailment) and of frustration. This book includes an analysis of the bill of lading and other documents of carriage (including sea waybills and delivery orders). The book focuses on international carriage measures, such as the Hague, the Hague-Visby, and the Hamburg Rules and discusses current developments towards uniformity. The author includes shippers' obligations, the obligations of the carrier, and the rights and immunities of the carrier and there is full coverage of the main issues in charterparties: voyage (including problems of lay-time and demurrage); time; and demise. Uniquely the book also covers an analysis of cargo claims. This book will fill an important gap in the existing literature on the subject. It will be one of a small number of one-volume texts covering the subject in its entirety, with the added benefit of being fully up-to-date and appealing both to a practitioner and a student audience. Coverage includes all the traditional topics, such as bills of lading and charterparties (voyage, time, and demise), and focuses also on each of the international conventions regulating the subject. Additionally, the content of the book extends to such issues as limitation, admiralty claims (in the cargo context), and a brief discussion of maritime arbitration. Although written from the perspective of English law, a particular feature is the extensive cross-referencing to (and analysis of) the law in other major common law jurisdictions (especially Australasia, Malaysia and Singapore, Hong Kong, and South Africa). Aimed at practitioners, law students and professionals in the industry, the author provides a full and detailed coverage of the main principles in a user-friendly and accessible format.

Regulating Content: European Regulatory Framework for the Media and Related Creative Sectors

Edited by Michael Holoubek, Dragana Damjanovic and Matthias Traimer

Kluwer Law International, Hardback, ISBN 9041125973, c.£70.00, due November

A complex network of regulatory systems has arisen around the provision of media in Europe. In this connection regulating content is a focal point, as content is not only of economic but of vital cultural importance. This new book provides a systematic overview and analysis of the legal bases of European content regulation. It offers an in-depth perspective on the functioning of the European legal framework for the content industry, its guiding principles, and its explicit and sometimes more fluid interface with policy areas falling largely into Member States competences. In this aspect the book can also be read as an analysis of the impact of the cooperation between European and Member State regulation when economic as well as social, democratic, and cultural policy goals are at stake. Among the areas of content regulation covered are: legal definitions related to the content industry; branches of the content industry broken down according to content category and distribution system; the division of competences between the EC and the Member States in cultural affairs; competition rules relating to distribution; market entry and access regulation in the electronic communication markets; specific regulation for such considerations as the protection of minors, protection of health, protection of consumers, and protection of personal rights; ensuring and safeguarding functioning market structures in the content markets; and harmonization and coordination measures. This book will be of extraordinary value to practitioners, policymakers, officials, and academics in the fields of media and communications law.

Letters Patent granted to Alexander Melville Clark, patent agent; on behalf of Benjamin Levi Stower, of New York, U.S.A.

Dated 20th September 1877, and relates to an improvement to Looms for the fine weaving of Hose and other fabrics. Attached by a silk rope to the Patent is a steel container (bronzed with age), holding the in tact yellow wax seal[a smaller copy of the Great Seal of England]. The document itself is on vellum, is clear crisp and bright, though a little dirtied. Otherwise excellent. Price £2000.00 plus V.A.T.

DEATH OF A CIRCUIT
Being some account of The Oxford Circuit and how it was abolished

Graeme Williams

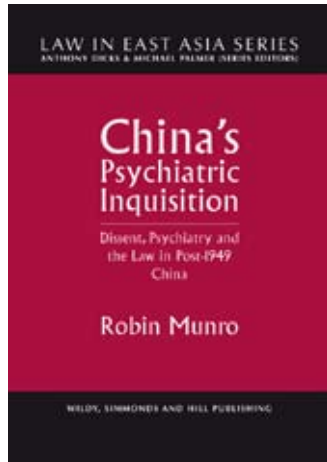

ISBN: 9781898029861

Hardback 124pp

Assizes, Quarter Sessions and the Oxford Circuit. Most barristers (and even some solicitors) practising in criminal work will probably have heard, however faintly, of the first two, without knowing what they were. But the Oxford Circuit has almost completely disappeared from the profession's memory. Yet all three were ancient and venerable parts of the (mainly criminal) justice system, and were in full force and operation until 1st January 1972, only half a modern lifetime ago. This book attempts to describe the pre-1972 system, and in particular the closing years of the Oxford Circuit's independent existence, its peremptory abolition and some of the Circuit characters, in what was a more colourful era than the present.

The author was in practice on the London end of the Oxford Circuit from 1960 onwards. He has been married for more than forty years to Anna Worrall QC, a Northern Circuitteer and Middle Temple Bencher. They live in Camden Town and Suffolk.

CHINA'S PSYCHIATRIC INQUISITION
Dissent, Psychiatry and the Law in Post-1949 China

Robin Munro

ISBN: 1898029857
Hardback 390pp
£65

This study examines the misuse of forensic psychiatry custody in China since the late 1950s as an adjunct means – alongside the legal authorities' more frequent use of arrest, trial and imprisonment – of punishing and silencing political dissidents, spiritual nonconformists, whistleblowers and other critics of official corruption or malfeasance. The principal questions addressed in the book are: how common have such practices been in China during the successive main periods in the country's post-1949 history; how have these repressive practices been theorized and handled under the country's evolving criminal justice system; and why have the security authorities resorted to this, at first sight, uncharacteristically sophisticated form of state repression? On the basis of extensive archival research into several decades of China's legal and psychiatric literature, the study concludes that the use of psychiatric custody against dissidents and other similar groups has been more widespread in China than it was in the former Soviet Union.

CHANCEL REPAIR LIABILITY
How to Research It
Revised ed

Derriman, James

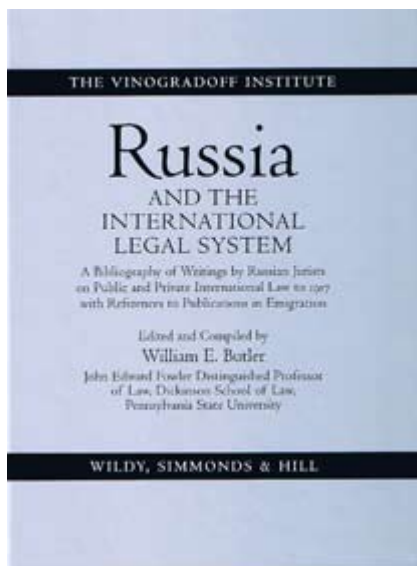

ISBN: 1898029849

Hardback
£19.95

The owner of any property, however small, in England or Wales, can be liable in certain circumstances to pay for repairs to the chancel of a medieval parish church in his locality. Until a recent case decided in the House of Lords led to a farmer and his wife being called on to pay a £95,000 bill, many property owners, conveyancers and parochial church councils had ignored this apparently remote corner of the law. Now, especially as a result of the Land Registration Act 2002, chancel repair liability has become a live issue.

The need for searches to establish whether any particular land may be affected is increasingly recognised. This book — the first of its kind — provides practical information on how to make these searches. It does not set out to be a legal textbook, but to enable lawyers, laymen and churchmen to understand the background and sources of information available so that they can discover so far as is possible when, and to what extent, liability may exist.

A Foreword by Dr R. Sturt, Diocesan Registrar of Canterbury, endorses its value not only for people who plan to do their own research, but as a mine of information for professionals, parochial church councils and amateur historians

FROM TRUST TO TAKEOVER
Butterworths 1938-1967
A Publishing House in Transition

Gordon Graham

ISBN: 1898029814
Hardback 102pp
£12.95

Stanley Bond, a largely unrecognized publishing genius, instructed in his will that his two infant sons should inherit the company when they attained the age of twenty-five. Until then, the company should be run by a Trust, which he set up, most of the income from which would go to his widow. The sons never got their inheritance. The company was sold twenty-four years after Bond's death. How this came about is a story of intrigue and power plays, in researching which the author had access to confidential archives and was able to interview witnesses of the drama. The result is a tale that throws light on the mores of privately-run companies sliding unwillingly into the era of corporate ownership.

Gordon Graham was Chairman and Chief Executive of Butterworths from 1975 to 1990. Prior to that he had been Managing Director of McGraw-Hill's British subsidiary and International Sales Manager of the McGraw-Hill Book Company, New York.

THE JOURNAL OF COMPARATIVE LAW

Edited by Nicholas Foster & Camilla Baasch Andersen

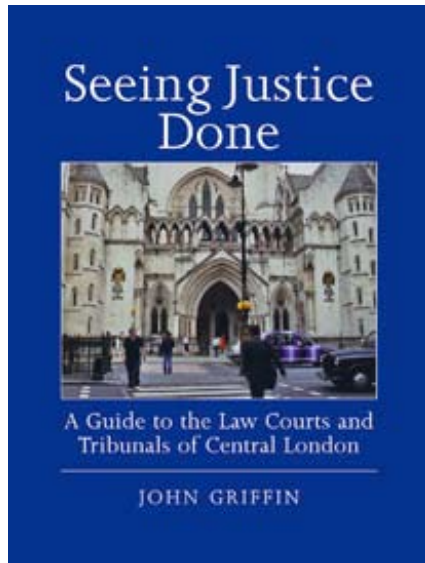

ISSN 1477-0814

2 issues per annum

Subscription Rates: £95 Institutions and £45 Individuals

We have pleasure in announcing publication of The Journal of Comparative Law. The journal provides a forum for comparative law scholarship and analysis. It will be an invaluable tool for practitioners and scholars working across international borders and with harmonised law. The journal, which is refereed, publishes materials on all aspects of comparative law, covering all geographical areas, and encourages analytical work with a contextual, theoretical and interdisciplinary approach. Due weight is accorded to practical aspects. The journal should appeal to a wide range of readers, including academics, students and international practitioners. Significant features include the publication of assessments and translations of important documents and comparative law bibliographies, as well as reviews of current and classic treatises and texts.

SEEING JUSTICE DONE

A guide to the Law Courts and Tribunals of Central London

John Griffin

ISBN: 1898029822

Paperback 126pp

£19.95

Seeing Justice Done is aimed at students and overseas lawyers, and at everyone with the time and inclination to visit the Law Courts and Tribunals of Central London as a spectator. The book describes where each of them is to be found, and what goes on inside them. Prominent lawyers explain the difference between barristers and solicitors, and there are eighteen interviews with individuals involved, willingly or unwillingly, in what lawyers call “the administration of justice”, ranging from a High Court Judge to a persistent criminal. The royalties of this book are being donated to the Solicitors Benevolent Association.
