Chambers, Chambers Global 2007, Chambers and Partners, HB, £140.00, ISBN: 9780855143664

This book reflects the judgement of the market. It asks lawyers and clients whom they would recommend, and why. It ranks lawyers by the opinions of their peers and clients. The Guide covers international commercial areas of legal practice, including corporate finance, real estate, litigation, banking, project finance, competition, tax and private equity. It also covers global industries such as energy, communications and shipping. In addition Chambers Global focuses on international arbitration and the fast growing IP sector.

Cox, Raymond and Merrett, Louise, Private International Law of Reinsurance and Insurance, Informa Publishing, HB, £220.00, ISBN: 1843115328

The first book dedicated to this subject, it provides a practical and easy-to-use reference in this complex area of law. This book provides a clear and practical guide to identifying the applicable legal regimes and relevant rules insofar as they concern reinsurance and insurance disputes. It provides authoritative guidance on resolving the issues that have arisen in relation to reinsurance and insurance under both the European rules and the common law. The book includes particular reference to the notoriously difficult Jurisdiction Regulation 44/201, the Rome Convention on Choice of Law and the 2001 Insurance Directives and regulations.

logical, progressive manner, giving the reader an understanding of EU law, concentrating on how, and especially why, the law has developed as it has. In addition, a number of issues presently facing the EU are also considered, such as enlargement and the prospect of a comprehensive written constitution. Understanding European Union Law is both an introduction for students new to EU law and an essential addition to revision for the more accomplished, including important tips on how to approach examination questions. It is also essential reading for students on business studies courses.

Empson, Laura, Managing the Modern Law Firm: New Challenges, New Perspectives, Oxford Univ Press, HB, £40.00, ISBN: 9780199296743

The last ten years have been a period of extraordinary change for law firms. The rapid growth of corporate law firms and the emergence of global mega-firms such as Clifford Chance, Linklaters, and Freshfields, have strained the traditional partnership model of management. Some managers of law firms are appalled at the creeping ‘corporatism’ that they fear may result. However a growing number believe that it is time to move on and adopt more contemporary forms of structure and management. Successfully meeting the challenges of this new business environment is vital for the continuing prosperity of law firms. Featuring contributions from both management researchers and legal practitioners, Managing the Modern Law Firm presents the latest insights from Management Studies in an approachable, practical, and relevant manner for lawyers and other professionals involved directly and indirectly with the management of law firms.

Gordon, Richard, EC Law in Judicial Review, Oxford Univ Press, HB, £89.95, ISBN: 0199266638

This book provides guidance to practitioners on how to act effectively when encountering EC problems in the context of judicial review. Divided into three Parts, the first Part takes as its starting point domestic judicial review procedure, grounds, and remedies and analyses them from an EC standpoint. Part Two turns to the fundamental rights and principles of law which underpin EC law. Finally, it considers in detail those key substantive areas in which judicial review and EC law interact, such as competition law, state aid, public procurement, and the free movement of goods, services, and persons.

Heath, Christopher and Liu, Kung-Chung, Copyright Law and the Information Society in Asia, Hart Publishing, PB, £45.00, ISBN: 1841136549

The book takes a look at the six most important current topics arising from copyright law in the information society, and for each topic provides an in-depth introduction that compares the approaches taken in Europe and the US. Each topic is introduced by an expert, and the issues are then analysed in separate country reports representing nine Asian jurisdictions: China, Taiwan, Hong Kong, Japan, Korea, Singapore, Malaysia, Thailand and the Philippines.

Hill, Peregrine; Morrell, John and Whittaker, Mark, Emergency Services: Law and Liability, Jordans, HB, £75.00, ISBN: 1846610303

This is a comprehensive survey of the legal liabilities of the three main emergency services, written by a team of specialists in public authority liability claims. This new work sets out the legal and regulatory framework in which these services operate and the potential liabilities that arise from the performance of their statutory duties. It covers in detail the public liability of each service including liability for the negligent treatment of victims and negligent rescue. It deals with employer's liability in respect of the unique tasks carried out by employees of emergency services. Other issues specific to one or more of the services such as malfeasance and disciplinary proceedings are also covered in detail.

Lord, Richard; Boole, Michael and Aikens, Richard, Bills of Lading, Informa Publishing, HB, £295.00, ISBN: 1843114380

Maas, Robert, Tottel's Taxation of Employments 12ed, Tottel Publishing, PB, £78.95, ISBN: 1845922549

The new edition of this popular title is a time-saving guide to the tax implications of the payment of emoluments and company benefits. It has been written by a specialist practitioner with the needs of advisers and employers in mind. The book is designed for easy reference and contains worked examples throughout, up-to-date tables of benefits, allowances and rates, cross-references to HMRC tax publications, including the Inland Revenue Bulletin and relevant Hansard quotations and Special Commissioners' decisions.

McVeigh, Shuan, Jurisprudence of Jurisdiction, Cavendish, HB, £45.00, ISBN: 9781844720323

For much of the history of the western legal order, the question of jurisdiction - the question of the power and authority of law - has been the first question of law. This book investigates the difference that jurisdiction continues to make to the ordering of normative existence. It also follows the speculation that without an account of jurisdiction, jurisprudence would be left speechless, left with no power to address the conditions of attachment to legal and political order.

Palmer, Camilla; Gill, Tess and Monaghan, Karon, Discrimination Law Handbook 2ed, Legal Action Group, PB, £55.00,

ISBN: 1903307384

Since the publication of the first edition of Discrimination Law Handbook there have been major changes to anti-discrimination law, with new definitions and new rights against discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation, religion or belief and age. The scope of the Disability Discrimination Act has been increased and public authorities have new positive duties to promote disability equality and gender equality. There is far greater protection from discrimination both in employment and in other areas of people's lives, but never has it been more difficult to understand and advise on the law, scattered as it is in a variety of Acts, regulations, Codes of Practice and Directives. Written by a team of discrimination and law experts, Discrimination Law Handbook navigates this complex route map. It is the only fully comprehensive, up-to-date guide to anti-discrimination laws. It provides an unrivalled blend of authoritative guidance, detailed explanation of UK and EU law and practical, accessible advice.

Shwenzer, Ingeborg and Founyoulakis, Christiana, International Sales Law, Cavendish, PB, £32.95, ISBN: 9780415419642
Written for international trade lawyers, practitioners and students from common law and civil law countries, this casebook will help practitioners and students assimilate knowledge on the CISG. The cases, texts and questions are intended to aid readers in their comparative law and international sales law studies, and are designed to draw attention to the particular issues surrounding specific CISG provisions and to provoke careful consideration of possible solutions. In addition to this book's function as a didactical aid, it is a reference work for leading cases and an introduction to the individual problem areas. In particular, it acts as a preparatory and complementary work for the Willem C. Vis International Commercial Arbitration Moot.

Tattersall, John, Practitioner's Guide to the FSA Regulation of Banking 2ed, City & Financial, PB, £85.00, ISBN: 1905121040

MAJOR NEW TITLES THIS MONTH – Continued

Since the first edition of this book was published, the regulatory environment in which the banking sector operates has been continually evolving. The impact of the Basel 2 Accord and EU directives on money laundering, market abuse and markets in financial instruments, together with the conclusion of the FSA's enforcement review, means that banks now operate in a completely changed regulatory environment. This title focuses on the impact of these changes on the FSA's risk-based approach to regulation and assesses the impact they will have on the way banks are managed on a day-to-day basis. It examines, amongst other areas, credit risk, liquidity risk and operational risk, as well as providing detailed commentary on authorisation and supervision process.

Tolley, Tolley's Tax Office Directory 2007 1ed, LexisNexis UK, PB, £33.95, ISBN: 0754529614

This complete guide brings together all the contact information needed by tax, financial and business advisers. It contains essential addresses, telephone numbers and fax numbers within Government revenue departments, all individually checked for accuracy. The Directory has been expanded to make the location of information quick and easy, and to include added commentary.

Williams, David, CGT and the Private Residence 4ed, CCH, PB, £67.95, ISBN: 1841408409

Private Residence Relief from capital gains tax is a relief which contains traps for the unwary but also opportunities for the well-informed. Updated to reflect recent case law and the Finance Act 2006, this complete resource on the subject will provide answers to all the problematic issues.

Williams, Glenys, Intention and Causation in Medical Non-Killing: The Impact of Criminal Law

Concepts on Euthanasia and Assisted Suicide, Cavendish, PB, £25.99, ISBN: 9780415423021

Analyzing the concepts of intention and causation in euthanasia, this timely new book explores a broad selection of disciplines, including criminal and medical law, medical ethics, philosophy and social policy and suggests an alternative solution to the one currently used by the courts, based on grading different categories of killing into a formalized justificatory defence. Topical and compelling, this significant contribution argues for a more open and honest approach which would, in turn, provide the certainty, consistency and equality required by the law. This is a quintessential read for all students studying medical and healthcare law and the legal aspects of health and medicine.

Zeller, Bruno, CISG and the Unification of International Trade, Cavendish, PB, £16.95, ISBN: 9780415421737

Pushing the boundaries between domestic and unified laws, this book explores the differences between unification and harmonization. Bruno Zeller provides a critical examination of the Convention for the International Sale of Goods (CISG), the advances of international jurisprudence and the role of domestic courts, in order to consider whether unification is merely a myth or a reality. Describing the salient features of unification and harmonization and using the CISG as a vehicle to test unification attempts, this volume touches on controversial points and fosters debates upon efforts to unify laws in discrete areas. It examines the assumption that the creation of a convention introduces a uniform law, which then contributes to the harmonization of international laws. Provocative, this is a must read for postgraduates and researchers studying and working in the fields of comparative and international trade law.

The Law and Practice of Admiralty Matters

by Sarah Derrington and James M Turner
Oxford University Press, Hardback, ISBN 978-0-19-928264-7, £175.00, due March 2007

The Law and Practice in Admiralty Matters opens with a consideration of the scope of admiralty action as set out in the Supreme Court Act 1981. Concepts peculiar to admiralty, such as maritime and statutory liens, and peculiarities of procedure under Practice Direction 61 are covered in detail. As well as covering procedural issues for court based dispute resolution, difficult areas relating to arbitration in practice are also addressed. A distinguishing feature of this work is the extensive consideration of the case law of commonwealth jurisdictions. The comparative approach is particularly illuminating where there is an absence of clarity in English law such as in the areas of post arrest applications and the interaction between admiralty arrest and insolvency proceedings. This new work is an essential addition to the literature on this area tackling difficult areas in detail and drawing in authorities from Commonwealth jurisdictions to illuminate gaps in English law.

Law and Management of Building Subcontracts 2nd edition

by John McGuinness

Blackwell Publishing, Hardback, ISBN 9781405161022, £65.00, due February 2007

There are probably 20-25 subcontracts entered into for every major building contract. However, despite this, there are relatively few books that discuss the problems particular to the subcontract relationship between main contracts and their subcontractors. This book examines the main issues that lead to disputes between contractors and subcontractors, identifies relevant law, including decisions of the courts, and also provides a view as to how other issues might be decided. The second edition has been extensively revised to cover all the 2005 JCT subcontracts and works contracts, and recent case law. Four new chapters have been added on subcontractors selected by third parties; organisation of the subcontract; sub-subcontracts; and works contracts under management contracting arrangements. It draws on the author's extensive experience of managing building subcontracts, as well as his involvement in handling over 130 adjudications.

Parallel Trade in Europe Intellectual Property, Competition and Regulatory Law

by Christopher Stothers

Hart Publishing, Hardback, ISBN 9781841134376, £95.00, due April 2007

Are parallel importers the key to free trade, breaking down long-established national barriers for the benefit of all? Or do they instead just operate in a dubious "grey market" for their own profit, free-loading on the investment of innovators and brand owners to the ultimate detriment of everyone? Parallel trade is in turns lionised and demonised, both in legal commentary and in the mainstream press. As one might expect, the truth lies somewhere between these extremes. Once goods have been manufactured they are put onto the market in one country by the manufacturer. Parallel trade occurs when the goods are subsequently transferred to a second country by another party (the parallel trader, who may be the end consumer). The distinguishing feature of parallel trade is that the manufacturer did not intend those particular goods to end up in the second country. The goods are normally described in that country as "parallel imports" or "grey market goods". The latter term is generally used to suggest that the trade, while not exactly "black market", is not entirely lawful either. Understanding how European Community law operates to permit or restrict parallel trade involves exploring a complex matrix of rules from the fields of free movement, intellectual property, competition and regulatory law, including both private and public enforcement regimes. Where goods are parallel imported from outside the Community these rules change and new considerations come into play, such as obligations arising from the European Economic Area, the World Trade Organization and bilateral free trade agreements. The experience of Europe, which has grappled with the issues on a regional basis for more than four decades, provides a fertile source for examination of parallel trade in other jurisdictions.

Christopher Stothers' comprehensive treatment successfully analyses this difficult topic, considering both Community and national decisions, and is set to become the definitive work of reference in the field.

Defending the Genetic Supermarket: The Law and Ethics of Selecting the Next Generation

by Colin Gavaghan

Routledge-Cavendish, Paperback, ISBN 9781844720583, £25.99, due February 2007

The controversial topic of the technology of Pre-implantation Genetic Diagnosis and the muddled approach to this subject adopted by the UK Parliament is explored in detail in this volume. The author takes the viewpoint that the HFEA has taken insufficient notice to date of certain core ethical principles and makes the case for a much more ethically consistent and humane system than has been managed so far. Arguing that many of the fears and objections levied against Robert Nozick's notion of the 'Genetic Supermarket' by disability activists, christian bioethicists and radical feminists, amongst others, are internally inconsistent, philosophically unsound or merely highly improbable, the author considers a number of individual policy decisions of the HFEA and addresses such questions as: Can a case be made out for state involvement in such decisions? Who stands to be harmed by a supermarket model? Are any ethical principles or societal interests threatened by it? This book is an essential resource for law students of all levels and professionals working within or interested in medical and health care law and medical genetics.

Computer Crimes and Digital Investigations

by Ian Walden

Oxford University Press, Hardback, ISBN 9780199290987, £75.00, due February 2007

Computer and network-based crime is a rapidly growing phenomena and problem for individuals, organisations and society as a whole, whether in the form of viruses or the distribution of child pornography. Following September 11th 2001, the horrific terrorism attacks on the London transport system in July 2005, and the threat of further attack through chemical and biological weapons, there is a broad governmental recognition of the vulnerability of society to attacks against critical infrastructure, which includes computer and communications systems. As a consequence, governments have placed computer crime laws high on the political agenda. This text provides a comprehensive legal analysis of the substantive and procedural rules relating to computer crime, and offers a clear explanation of the relevant technical aspects of computer crime, from types of attacks launched through to forensic techniques. The text places computer crime firmly in its international context, through comparative discussion of laws in other jurisdictions, international harmonisation initiatives, and mechanisms for co-operation between law enforcement bodies in different jurisdictions.

Probate Disputes and Remedies, 2nd edition

way. The new edition deals with the topics such as pre-death issues, death and burial disputes, obtaining the grant - dispute and resolution, problems with the will, estate administration disputes, claims against personal representatives, validity claims, disappointed beneficiary claims, and professional advisers and disgruntled beneficiaries. Expertly drafted precedents including model letters and pleadings provide the reader with a time-saving and practical resource.

European Data Protection Law: Corporate Compliance and Regulation, 2nd edition

by Christopher Kuner
Oxford University Press, Hardback, ISBN 9780199283859, £125.00, due February 2007

The new edition of this acclaimed book gives a fully updated overview of European data protection law affecting companies, incorporating the important legal developments that have taken place since the last edition was published. These include the first three cases of the European Court of Justice interpreting the EU Data Protection Directive (95/46), the Commission's first report on the implementation of the Directive, the Data Retention Directive, new developments in international data transfers, conflicts between security requirements and data protection, and the implementation of the Electronic Communications and Privacy Directive 2002/58 in the Member States. It also covers the recent European Court of Justice decision on the controversial export of airline passenger data to the US, and expands its European overview to include the new and acceding Member States. The book contains comprehensive coverage of data protection law, while at the same time providing pragmatic guidance on the typical compliance issues that companies face. As globalization of the world economy continues, an increasing number of business issues with data protection implications have come to the foreground, for example, outsourcing, whistleblower hotlines and records management, all of which are covered in the book. The appendices have been expanded to include most sources which a company will need, such as the texts of relevant directives, the safe harbor principles and FAQs, and charts of implementation in the Member States of specific provisions of interest to business. Thus, the book is a single reference source for companies faced with data protection issues.

The Law of Merger Control in the EC and the UK

by Mark Furse
Hart Publishing, Hardback, ISBN 9781841135250, £50.00, due February 2007

This text introduces the reader to the principles and practice of merger control in the EC and the UK. It deals clearly with both of the new regimes, providing a discussion of the policy and the relevant legislation, clarified through an analysis of pertinent cases and decisions. The aim is to provide the non-expert reader with a thorough and accessible introduction to the subject. The book deals first with matters common to both regimes, including relevant economics, and then focuses on the EC and UK systems as separate entities. In each case the text covers qualifying mergers, including principles of territorial jurisdiction, substantive tests, procedures, appeals, and third party rights, as well as the link between the UK and EC regimes. The book is up to date to 31 July 2006. Substantial appendices provide most of the relevant core legislation in one convenient place.

FORENSIC FABLES BY 'O'
Theo Mathew

ISBN: 9781898029878

Hardback

£19.95

Forensic Fables appeared first in the Law Journal and then in book form between 1926 and 1932. They were published anonymously, but their authorship was quickly guessed. The literary style and the pictorial delineation were alike unmistakable. They were the work of Theo Mathew composed in his study on the ground floor at the back of 31 Cornwall Gardens. They show his wit in all its maturity.

This new reprint also contains Hubert Picarda's biographical article on Theo Mathew: 'Stick to a Stuff-Gown'

DEATH OF A CIRCUIT
Being some account of The Oxford Circuit and how it was abolished

Graeme Williams

ISBN: 9781898029861

Hardback 124pp

Assizes, Quarter Sessions and the Oxford Circuit. Most barristers (and even some solicitors) practising in criminal work will probably have heard, however faintly, of the first two, without knowing what they were. But the Oxford Circuit has almost completely disappeared from the profession's memory. Yet all three were ancient and venerable parts of the (mainly criminal) justice system, and were in full force and operation until 1st January 1972, only half a modern lifetime ago. This book attempts to describe the pre-1972 system, and in particular the closing years of the Oxford Circuit's independent existence, its peremptory abolition and some of the Circuit characters, in what was a more colourful era than the present.

The author was in practice on the London end of the Oxford Circuit from 1960 onwards. He has been married for more than forty years to Anna Worrall QC, a Northern Circuitteer and Middle Temple Bencher. They live in Camden Town and Suffolk.

CHINA'S PSYCHIATRIC INQUISITION
Dissent, Psychiatry and the Law in Post-1949 China

Robin Munro

ISBN: 1898029857
Hardback 390pp
£65

This study examines the misuse of forensic psychiatry custody in China since the late 1950s as an adjunct means – alongside the legal authorities' more frequent use of arrest, trial and imprisonment – of punishing and silencing political dissidents, spiritual nonconformists, whistleblowers and other critics of official corruption or malfeasance. The principal questions addressed in the book are: how common have such practices been in China during the successive main periods in the country's post-1949 history; how have these repressive practices been theorized and handled under the country's evolving criminal justice system; and why have the security authorities resorted to this, at first sight, uncharacteristically sophisticated form of state repression? On the basis of extensive archival research into several decades of China's legal and psychiatric literature, the study concludes that the use of psychiatric custody against dissidents and other similar groups has been more widespread in China than it was in the former Soviet Union.

CHANCEL REPAIR LIABILITY
How to Research It
Revised ed

Derriman, James

ISBN: 1898029849

Hardback

£19.95

The owner of any property, however small, in England or Wales, can be liable in certain circumstances to pay for repairs to the chancel of a medieval parish church in his locality. Until a recent case decided in the House of Lords led to a farmer and his wife being called on to pay a £95,000 bill, many property owners, conveyancers and parochial church councils had ignored this apparently remote corner of the law. Now, especially as a result of the Land Registration Act 2002, chancel repair liability has become a live issue.

The need for searches to establish whether any particular land may be affected is increasingly recognised. This book — the first of its kind — provides practical information on how to make these searches. It does not set out to be a legal textbook, but to enable lawyers, laymen and churchmen to understand the background and sources of information available so that they can discover so far as is possible when, and to what extent, liability may exist.

A Foreword by Dr R. Sturt, Diocesan Registrar of Canterbury, endorses its value not only for people who plan to do their own research, but as a mine of information for professionals, parochial church councils and amateur historians

FROM TRUST TO TAKEOVER
Butterworths 1938-1967
A Publishing House in Transition

Gordon Graham

ISBN: 1898029814
Hardback 102pp
£12.95

Stanley Bond, a largely unrecognized publishing genius, instructed in his will that his two infant sons should inherit the company when they attained the age of twenty-five. Until then, the company should be run by a Trust, which he set up, most of the income from which would go to his widow. The sons never got their inheritance. The company was sold twenty-four years after Bond's death. How this came about is a story of intrigue and power plays, in researching which the author had access to confidential archives and was able to interview witnesses of the drama. The result is a tale that throws light on the mores of privately-run companies sliding unwillingly into the era of corporate ownership.

Gordon Graham was Chairman and Chief Executive of Butterworths from 1975 to 1990. Prior to that he had been Managing Director of McGraw-Hill's British subsidiary and International Sales Manager of the McGraw-Hill Book Company, New York.
